NASDAQ: FSTR
PRICE: $26.98
DATE: February 1, 2010

Q4 EPS of $0.38 exceeded our estimate of $0.30 due to 1) higher than expected gross margin ($0.17) and lower than expected SG&A ($0.04). This was offset by a higher than expected tax rate ($0.09) and lower than expected interest income ($0.04).

Sales in Q4 declined 31.8% YOY to $98 million, in line with our estimate of $98.6 million.

Gross margin improved 200 basis points YOY to 15.8% due to the net effect of a positive LIFO adjustment.

Backlog increased 30% YOY to $172.7 million

Effective cost management continued as SG&A declined 23.9% YOY for the quarter.

Cash increased sequentially $2.9 million to $124.8 million ($12.12/share) while debt declined to $13.2 million.

Market conditions are described as "stable but soft"

The stock trades at a discount to peers based on TTM performance.

We are amending our FY10 EPS estimate to $1.25 to account for lower projected interest income and uncertainty regarding non-residential construction spending for 2010.

Q4 EPS Better Than Expected

Q4 EPS of $.38 exceeded our estimate of $.30 due to higher than expected gross margin ($.17) and lower than expected SG&A expense ($.04) offset by a higher tax rate ($.09) and lower interest income ($.04). Total sales in Q4 declined 31.8% YOY to $98 million, slightly below our estimate of $98.6 million. In terms of business segments, sales declines were as follows: Rail (36.8%), Construction (26.8%), and Tubular (38.9%). All product lines except bridge, transit and concrete buildings registered YOY declines. The bridge and concrete buildings product lines most directly benefited from Federal Stimulus spending. Stable but soft generally describes current business conditions. In this vein, total backlog increased 30% YOY to $172.7 million. Backlog has increased sequentially in three consecutive quarters. Gross margin improved 200 basis points YOY to 15.8%, exceeding our estimate of 14%. A positive LIFO adjustment of $9.2 million was offset by negative adjustments of $6.5 million related to manufacturing variances, inventory obsolescence, scrap pricing, and lower production volumes. SG&A expense came in lower than expected due to lower bad debt expense, travel and entertainment, and incentive compensation. Due to the lower interest rate environment, interest income was lower than expected. The income tax rate of 40.7% was higher than expected due to lower deductions. Cash increased nearly $3 million sequentially to $124.9 million ($12.12/share). The company paid down $8.9 million in debt for the year to $13.2 million. Capacity utilization is around 45%. The stock trades at a discount to its peers on a trailing twelve month basis based on several valuation metrics.

Outlook

The company believes that stimulus-related projects will slow in 2010 and topline challenges will continue in the near term. The most salient weakness appears to be in the tubular products division although this represents only 5% of total revenue. Railroad companies are generally forecasting flat cap ex spending for 2010 while the company cites non-residential construction decline estimates of 10-15% for 2010. Gross margin pressure remains the most significant risk factor going forward due to competitive pricing. Any potential positive impacts from federally funded light-rail projects remain on the periphery. The company is projecting cap ex spending of $6-$7 million for FY10. Due to the company's cost restructuring, it is believed that as volumes grow expenses will not increase proportionally. We have lowered our FY10 sales forecast based on more cautionary statements from management regarding non-residential construction spending and a lessened impact from stimulus spending. A rebound in non-residential construction is generally expected for 2011. Additionally, we have lowered our sales estimate for the tubular products division based on current trends. We have also lowered our FY10 interest income estimate meaningfully in anticipation of continued low interest rates. We have lowered our EPS forecast for FY10 to $1.25.
